Excellencies,
Ladies and Gentlemen,

It is a special honour for me to be among you and make few remarks on this historic occasion of the UN-Day commemoration.

This day is more than a celebration. Indeed, it is a reminder for us all to strive to ensure what has been promised to humanity long before and renew our political and moral commitments to address new faces of human challenges. The global dynamics, with all its odds, uniquely entail a faithful, just, innovative and visionary collective leadership.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

The people and Government of the State of Eritrea are proud to spearhead their nation-building endeavours with an evidently clear policy of social justice and determined political leadership. The achievements are vivid and modestly deserve recognition. However, it is in our conviction that more is ahead of us to be done. Reaching out the aspirations of every citizen, especially the children and the youth, all in terms of their health, education and wellbeing remains top on the agenda. To ensure sustainability in every sector, integrated human, financial and material resources have been mobilized.

Eritrea values a partnership that underpins national ownership, mutual trust and benefit. Along with this line, we believe that we have built a viable working environment with our development partners, both at bilateral and multilateral levels. In this regard, I would like to express my gratitude to the cordial partnership that we enjoy with the UN families within the Strategic Framework of Partnership Agreement and we are hopeful to expedite this in terms of the quality of intervention.

With this brief remark, I wish you all a pleasant evening!

Thank you!
